Immigration

Section Two
U.S. Immigration Pathways: Which One is Right for Your Investment Project?

Andrew Greenfield, Partner
Section Two: U.S. Immigration Pathways: Which One is Right for Your Investment Project?

In an environment of fluid markets, changing policies, and a global pandemic altering cross-border travel, understanding the immigration options available to investors and their workforces is an essential – but sometimes overlooked – aspect of investing in the United States. Investors need to make sure that their employees have the correct U.S. visa(s) and an immigration advisor to ensure the visas are secured as timely and seamlessly as possible. This chapter details the immigration options available to business investors and their prospective U.S. employees, including information on visa requirements, timeframes, and considerations for families.

The table at the end of this chapter summarizes key aspects of each of the visa categories discussed and includes additional hyperlinks to relevant government websites.

Temporary Visitors

The B-1 (business visitor) visa allows individuals to enter the United States temporarily to conduct certain types of business activities on behalf of a foreign entity or investor. Under a B-1 visa, the individual may establish an investment and plan for relocation, including incorporating a business, meeting with business and financial advisors and contracting for their services, opening accounts, securing premises, and searching for housing and schools.

The B-1 visa does not, however, permit employment on behalf of a U.S. business. Thus, if the foreign investor wants to direct, manage, or perform services in the United States for the new U.S. business, then he or she must first obtain a U.S. work permit. This is true even if the investor will be paid for his services by a foreign company.

Once obtained, the B-1 visa will be valid for as little as one month to as long as 10 years depending on the nationality of the visa holder. Some B-1 visas may be used for only one entry into the United States while others may be used for multiple entries, again based on nationality. Officers at the U.S. border decide how long a business visitor may stay for each visit. The officer may grant a stay for the time necessary to conduct the business, but not more than six months. If the business visitor requires additional time in the United States to complete his or her business activities, then it is possible to request an extension of stay.
Note: there is no requirement that the E visa applicant be employed outside the United States by a foreign parent or affiliated company prior to his or her U.S. assignment. This is an important distinction from the L-1 visa category discussed below.

Intracompany Transferees

The L-1 visa category is for foreign nationals who will be assigned to work in the United States for an organization that is related to their home country employer. Employees who have worked outside the United States for at least one continuous year in an executive, managerial, or specialized knowledge capacity for a parent, branch, subsidiary, or other affiliate of the U.S. employer may be eligible for L-1 classification. The employer must seek to transfer the employee to the United States to assume an executive, managerial, or specialized knowledge position, although it does not need to be the same position the employee held abroad. Newly established U.S. businesses may sponsor foreign employees for L-1 visas, but work authorization is initially granted for one year, and the employer must subsequently renew sponsorship with evidence of business viability.

Ordinarily, the employer must obtain U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) approval for each prospective L-1 transferee before the transferee can apply for an L-1 visa at a U.S. consulate. However, there is a streamlined process, known as the L-1 “blanket program,” that does not require USCIS processing and permits the U.S. consulate to handle the entire adjudication process. The blanket program is available for multinational organizations who frequently transfer employees to the United States. To qualify for the blanket program, the U.S. employer must have been doing business in the United States for at least one year and meet at least one of the following criteria: 1) at least ten L-1 approvals from USCIS in the prior year; 2) U.S. sales of at least $25 million; or 3) at least 1,000 U.S. employees. USCIS processing for individual L-1 filings and/or initial approval for the corporate blanket program can take several months unless the employer pays for 15-day Premium Processing. Once the initial corporate blanket petition is approved by USCIS, most individual L-1 visa requests may be made entirely at the consulate, as stated above.

L-1 work authorization is available for up to seven years if the U.S. role is executive or managerial (L-1A) or up to five years if the U.S. role requires specialized knowledge (L-1B). L-1A executives or managers who also served as executives or managers for their foreign affiliated employers before transferring to the United States may be eligible to apply for U.S. permanent residency (the “green card”) without the need for the U.S. labor market test that is typically a prerequisite for green card applications.
Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may accompany the principal L-1 visa holder and attend school in the United States. Spouses of principal L-1 foreign nationals may seek employment in the United States for any employer without the need for separate sponsorship.

Note: unlike the E-1 and E-2 visa categories discussed above, the L-1 visa is available to those of any nationality so long as they have been employed abroad by an affiliated company for at least one year in a qualifying capacity.

Specialty Occupation Professionals

The H-1B visa category is available to persons who will be employed in “specialty occupations.” Specialty occupations are defined by USCIS as occupations for which a bachelor’s degree or equivalent in a specific academic field of study is required to perform the job. The H-1B candidate must in turn possess at least a bachelor’s degree, or equivalent education and/or experience, in the specified field of study.

The H-1B visa is one of the most sought-after U.S. employment visas, but it presents two key challenges for employers. Unlike other temporary U.S. work visas, the H-1B visa category is subject to an annual quota of 65,000, plus an additional 20,000 quota numbers for those holding a U.S. advanced degree. Each year, the demand for H-1B visas far exceeds the quota. This restricts the H-1B option for most of the year. Quota exemptions are available for certain nonprofits and existing H-1B visa holders, who may change employers during their H-1B tenure in the United States, subject to successful sponsorship by a subsequent employer sponsor.

The H-1B visa program is also regulated by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL), which requires employers to obtain approval of a “Labor Condition Application” (LCA) before filing an H-1B petition with USCIS. Among other things, the LCA requires employers to attest they will pay the H-1B worker competitive wages and provide notice to local U.S. employees of the H-1B sponsorship. DOL may investigate employers’ compliance with LCA attestations and violators may be subject to significant monetary penalties and debarment from the H-1B and other immigration programs.

The employer must have USCIS approval before the H-1B candidate can apply for an H-1B visa at a U.S. consulate. USCIS processing is several months unless the employer pays for 15-day Premium Processing.
H-1B employment authorization is available for up to six years and may be granted in up to three-year increments. Extensions beyond six years may be permitted where the worker is sponsored for U.S. permanent residency.

Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may accompany the principal H-1B visa holder to the United States and attend school. Spouses are not eligible for work authorization as dependents unless the principal H-1B employee is being sponsored for an employment-based green card and is well along in that process.

Canadian and Mexican Professionals

The TN visa category was created pursuant to the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and is now included in the recently negotiated U.S.-Mexico-Canada Agreement (USMCA). It permits certain Canadian and Mexican citizens to accept temporary employment in the United States. To qualify for TN classification, a U.S. employer must be offering a temporary position in an occupation that is listed in the USMCA. The listed occupations generally require the individual to possess a bachelor's degree (or a Canadian or Mexican degree that is equivalent to a U.S. bachelor's degree) in a field related to the occupation.

Canadians may apply for TN classification at a U.S. border crossing with a sponsorship letter from the U.S. employer and supporting documentation; they are not required to obtain a TN visa stamp at a U.S. consulate as Canadian citizens are generally exempt from the U.S. visa requirement. Citizens of Mexico must apply for a TN visa at a U.S. consulate before proceeding to the United States.

TN employment authorization is granted in up to three-year increments with no limitation on the maximum period of stay. However, an individual in TN status must maintain the intent to remain in the U.S. temporarily.

Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may accompany the principal TN employee and attend school but are not eligible to work in the United States unless they obtain separate sponsorship.

Persons of Extraordinary Ability

The O-1 visa is available to individuals who can demonstrate “extraordinary ability” in the sciences, education, business, athletics, or the arts. USCIS regulations provide that these individuals are among the small percentage who have risen to the very top of their field of endeavor and have achieved national or international recognition for their achievements in their field. In addition to these overarching requirements, O-1 petitions must include evidence, including letters of reference, that meets at least three categories of evidence listed in the regulations.
While the standard for the O-1 visa is high, one does not need to have a Nobel Prize or Olympic medal or be widely known to the public. Rather, evidence must show that the candidate is highly respected and distinguished within his or her specialized sphere of expertise.

Employers must seek USCIS approval before a foreign national can apply for an O-1 visa. USCIS processing takes several months unless the employer pays for 15-day Premium Processing.

O-1 visas are initially granted for three years and then in one-year increments, with no limitation on the maximum period of stay. Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may accompany the principal O-1 visa holder and attend school but are not eligible to work in the United States unless they obtain separate sponsorship.

Employment-Based U.S. Residency (the “Green Card”)

A U.S. employer may sponsor an employee for U.S. residency and in some cases an employee may self-sponsor his or her green card application. In most cases, a residency application sponsored by a U.S. employer requires the DOL to certify that U.S. workers are not available for the sponsored role after the employer completes a U.S. labor market test. The labor market test requirement – known as PERM – requires employers to place ads in newspapers, publicize the job announcement on recruitment sites, and demonstrate that any U.S. applicants were considered for the role in good faith, but none met the employer’s minimum requirements.

Exceptions to the labor market test requirement include foreign nationals who qualify as persons of extraordinary ability, outstanding professors or researchers, multinational executives and managers, those whose work serves the U.S. national interest, and residency applications made through the EB-5 investor program.

Once DOL certifies the employer’s labor market test, or where the labor market test is waived, the employer (or the employee where self-sponsorship is permitted) must file a petition with USCIS seeking classification in one of five employment-based green card categories, often referred to as “EB” categories, i.e., “EB-1” through “EB-5.” Eligibility for the EB-1, EB-2, and EB-3 categories is generally based on the education, experience, and specialized skills required for the sponsored role and possessed by the sponsored employee, among other factors. The EB-4 category comprises a broad range of foreign nationals, including certain religious workers, translators, and retirees of international organizations, each with their own eligibility requirements.
Finally, the EB-5 category is a special type of employment-based green card category designed for investors. To qualify for the EB-5 program, the investor must make an investment of personal funds in a new commercial enterprise or troubled business. The required investment is US$1.05 million. However, if the business is in a rural area or a location designated by the U.S. government as a high unemployment area, or if the investment is made in a qualifying federal, state, or local infrastructure project, the required investment decreases to US$800,000.

Once classified in the appropriate green card category, the employee and dependents can complete the green card process by filing an application for residency status in the United States or by filing for an immigrant visa at a U.S. consulate. Because employment-based green cards are limited by an annual quota, some applicants, depending on their classification category and country of birth, may need to wait many years before they can complete the process and become residents. As a result, the entire green card process can take as little as two years (sometimes less) to a decade or longer.

Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may apply for residency with the principal applicant in order to live, attend school, and work in the United States.

Except for the EB-5 category, once an individual is granted employment-based U.S. permanent residency status, he or she and eligible dependents may work for any U.S. employer and live in the United States indefinitely. In the case of EB-5 sponsorship, the investor and dependents are initially granted U.S. residency for two years. If the investment creates or preserves 10 jobs for U.S. workers within two years, then the investor and dependents may apply for indefinite residency.

In order to preserve residency status, a permanent resident must maintain his or her primary residence in the United States and abide by all tax and other laws applicable to U.S. residents.

Impact of COVID-19 on Cross-Border Travel to the United States

As of April 2022, the United States no longer imposes travel bans from countries/regions of the world with high COVID infection rates. As of June 12, 2022, and until further notice, international air travelers are no longer required to provide evidence of a negative COVID test as a condition for entry to the United States. However, foreign nationals traveling to the United States, with few exceptions, must also show proof they have been fully vaccinated against COVID-19. For current information on pandemic-related requirements for entry into the United States, please visit the Department of State’s website: [COVID-19 Testing Order Rescinded](https://travel.state.gov/content/travel/en/travelers/covid-updates/testing-order- rescinded.html).

The pandemic has also negatively affected visa processing at U.S. consulates abroad. The lifting of the travel bans has resulted in increased demand for visa appointments and many
U.S. consulates do not have enough staff to handle the volume. This may result in exceptionally long wait times for appointments, depending on the consulate. It is crucial that visa applicants routinely check consular websites for earlier appointment slots that might become available and to learn a particular consulate’s policy with regard to requesting an expedited/emergency appointment and/or a waiver of the in-person interview requirement.

Which Option Is Right for Your Organization?

There is an array of immigration options for foreign investors and their employees. Choosing the right immigration pathway is an important decision that should be made with competent immigration counsel, preferably at the early planning stages of your U.S. venture.

Please see the attached table, which summarizes the visa categories discussed above and provides additional hyperlinks to government websites.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Visa Type</th>
<th>Permitted Activities</th>
<th>Prohibited Activities</th>
<th>Eligibility Criteria</th>
<th>Length of Stay</th>
<th>Dependents</th>
<th>Process and Timeframe</th>
<th>Special Considerations</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>B-1 Business Visitor</td>
<td>Establish an investment and plan for relocation, including:</td>
<td>• Direct, manage, or provide services to a U.S. business</td>
<td>Must have a residence outside the United States and intend to remain in the United States temporarily and only for permitted activities</td>
<td>Up to six months with a B-1 visa stamp, or up to 90 days under the Visa Waiver Program with approved ESTA.</td>
<td>Yes, provided they will not engage in prohibited activities and they meet eligibility criteria.</td>
<td>Immediate if already have B-1 visa; a few days to secure online ESTA approval; Appointment waiting times at U.S. consulate to apply for B-1 visas vary greatly.*</td>
<td>While a stay of up to 6 months is permitted under the rules for those with a visa, U.S. border officers will typically only permit entry for a shorter period, depending on the reasons for the visit. Entrants under the Visa Waiver Program/ESTA will almost always be granted a 90-day stay.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Visa Waiver Program</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E Treaty Trader/Investor</td>
<td>Invest in, direct, and/or manage a U.S. business that is majority owned by citizens of a country with which the United States has a commercial treaty.</td>
<td>U.S. employment other than the one sponsoring the E visa business.</td>
<td>The U.S. business must be majority owned by citizens of a treaty country and the E visa applicant must also be a citizen of that country. The applicant must also be entering the United States to direct and manage the investment or provide essential skills.</td>
<td>Visa validity varies by country. A two-year stay is typically granted each entry, but there is no maximum period of stay.</td>
<td>Yes. Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may accompany principal visa-holder and attend school. Spouses can apply for work authorization.</td>
<td>Qualifying U.S. businesses must request eligibility from U.S. consulate in order to support E visa applications. Once eligible, qualified citizens of treaty country may apply for E visas at U.S. consulate. Appointment waiting times at U.S. consulate to apply for E visas vary greatly.*</td>
<td>E-1 visas require U.S. business to engage in substantial trade with the other treaty signatory. E-2 visas require a substantial investment in U.S. business.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L-1 Intracompany Transferee</td>
<td>L-1A: Employment as executive, manager for a U.S. entity with foreign affiliates L-1B: Employment based on specialized knowledge for a U.S. entity with foreign affiliates</td>
<td>U.S. employment other than with sponsoring L-1 organization</td>
<td>Must be employed outside U.S. for at least one year in an executive, managerial, or specialized knowledge capacity for a parent, subsidiary, affiliate, or branch of U.S. entity.</td>
<td>Up to 7 years if U.S. role is executive or managerial (L-1A) Up to 5 years if U.S. role is specialized knowledge (L-1B)</td>
<td>Yes. Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may accompany the principal visa-holder and attend school. Spouses may seek employment.</td>
<td>USCIS approval required before applying for visa unless employer has an approved blanket petition covering the U.S. and foreign employers. USCIS processing is several months unless employer pays for two-week Premium Processing. Appointment waiting times at U.S. consulates to apply for L-1 visas vary greatly.*</td>
<td>Newly established U.S. businesses may sponsor foreign employees for L-1 visas, but work authorization is initially granted for one year, then sponsorship must be renewed with evidence of continued business viability.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Visa Type</td>
<td>Permitted Activities</td>
<td>Prohibited Activities</td>
<td>Length of Stay</td>
<td>Dependents</td>
<td>Process and Timeframe</td>
<td>Special Considerations</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---------------------------</td>
<td>---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------</td>
<td>----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------</td>
<td>----------------</td>
<td>------------</td>
<td>-----------------------</td>
<td>-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H-1B Professionals</td>
<td>Employment by U.S. sponsor in a &quot;specialty occupation&quot;.</td>
<td>U.S. employment other than with sponsoring H-1B employer.</td>
<td>Up to six years</td>
<td>Yes</td>
<td>USCIS approval required prior to visa application. USCIS processing is several months unless employer pays for two-week Premium Processing. Appointment waiting times at U.S. consulate to apply for H-1B visas vary greatly.*</td>
<td>Dependents do not need to be citizens of Canada or Mexico, but dependents must apply for a visa unless they are citizens of Canada.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TN Professionals</td>
<td>Employment by a U.S. sponsor in an occupation specified in USMCA.</td>
<td>Citizens of Canada and Mexico. U.S. job must match occupation on USMCA list. Must have education and/or experience required for occupation by USMCA, which is typically a bachelor's degree or foreign equivalent.</td>
<td>Up to three-year increments. No maximum period of stay. Must have intent to stay in the United States temporarily.</td>
<td>Yes. Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may accompany the principal visa holder and attend school but may not work as dependents.</td>
<td>Canadians apply at U.S. border with sponsorship letter from U.S. employer and supporting documentation. Citizens of Mexico must apply for a TN visa at U.S. consulate. Appointment waiting times at U.S. consulate to apply for TN visas vary greatly.*</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>O-1 Persons of Extraordinary Ability</td>
<td>Employment by a U.S. sponsor in a job related to expertise.</td>
<td>Individuals who are nationally or internationally renowned and acclaimed for achievements in their field.</td>
<td>Initially for three years, and then in one-year increments. No maximum stay.</td>
<td>Yes. Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may accompany the principal visa holder and attend school but may not work as dependents.</td>
<td>Substantial evidence required, including letters of reference, as well as other specific evidence required by regulation.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Visa Type</td>
<td>Permitted Activities</td>
<td>Prohibited Activities</td>
<td>Eligibility Criteria</td>
<td>Length of Stay</td>
<td>Dependents</td>
<td>Process and Timeframe</td>
<td>Special Considerations</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------</td>
<td>----------------------</td>
<td>-----------------------</td>
<td>----------------------</td>
<td>----------------</td>
<td>------------</td>
<td>----------------------</td>
<td>------------------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U.S. residency (the &quot;green card&quot;), other than the EB-5 Investor Program</td>
<td>Live and work in the U.S. indefinitely. May work for any U.S. employer once residency is granted.</td>
<td>Failure to maintain primary residence in the United States. Violation of tax and other laws applicable to U.S. residents.</td>
<td>A U.S. employer sponsor and labor market test are generally required, unless the labor market test is waived. Employee and sponsored job must also meet requirements for sponsorship category, based on education, experience, and skills.</td>
<td>Indefinite.</td>
<td>Yes. Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may apply for residency and also live and work in the United States indefinitely.</td>
<td>U.S. Department of Labor approves labor market test, unless waived. File immigrant petition in proper green card category based on education, experience, and skills. Employee and dependents can then file to complete the U.S. residency process. One- to two-year processing. Depending on country of birth and sponsorship category, annual quota may delay case by several years.</td>
<td>Labor market test is waived for persons of extraordinary ability, outstanding professors and researchers, certain multinational managers and executives, and those working in the national interest. The EB-5 investor program also does not require a labor market test. See below.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U.S. residency (the &quot;green card&quot;): the EB-5 Investor Program</td>
<td>Live and work in the U.S. indefinitely.</td>
<td>Failure to maintain primary residence in the United States. Violation of tax and other laws applicable to U.S. residents.</td>
<td>Investment of personal funds in a new commercial enterprise or troubled business. Required investment is US$1.05 million, or US$800,000 where the business is in a designated rural or high unemployment area, or the investment is made in a qualifying federal, state, or local infrastructure project.</td>
<td>Residency granted conditionally for 2 years, then indefinitely once certain criteria are met.</td>
<td>Yes. Spouses and unmarried children under age 21 may apply for residency and also live and work in the United States conditionally and then indefinitely.</td>
<td>File petition with USCIS to establish eligibility and apply for residency status, which is granted conditionally for two years. If the investment creates or preserves 10 jobs for U.S. workers within two years, the investor may apply for indefinite residency, subject to an annual quota.</td>
<td>Some EB-5 investments can be made through government-approved Regional Centers that sponsor EB-5 capital investment projects.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* Due to COVID-19, wait times at many U.S. consulates around the world may be longer than usual as the consulates face increasing demand for visas. It is crucial that visa applicants check consular websites routinely for earlier appointment slots that might become available and to learn a particular consulate's policy with regard to requesting an expedited/emergency appointment.
Glossary

Adjustment of Status (AOS): An option for the final stage of the permanent residence process. The AOS application, Form I-485, can be filed with USCIS if the priority date is current and certain other requirements are met.

B-1 Business Visitor: Visa category for business visitors to the United States. The B-1 visa does not confer the ability to work and B-1 visa holders cannot receive compensation from a U.S. source or work on a project where services are being billed to a client. Business visitors from certain countries can enter the United States without a B-1 visa stamp under the Visa Waiver Program (VWP); these individuals are admitted for a maximum of 90 days and are not eligible for extensions of their status except in extremely limited circumstances. B-1 visitors who have visa stamps in their passports can be admitted for up to six months and are eligible for extensions of their status.

B-2 Tourist Visitor: Visa category for tourists visiting the United States. Tourists from some countries are able to enter the U.S. without a B-2 visa stamp under the Visa Waiver Program (VWP); these individuals are admitted for a maximum of 90 days and are not eligible for extensions of their status except in extremely limited circumstances. B-2 visitors who have visa stamps in their passports can be admitted for up to six months and are eligible for extensions of their status.

Department of Labor (DOL): U.S. federal agency that includes the Office of Foreign Labor Certification, which oversees prevailing wage determinations, Labor Condition Applications (LCAs), and labor certifications/PERM.

Green Card: The informal name for the Permanent Resident Card, which is evidence that an individual has been granted status to live and work in the United States indefinitely.

H-1B: Visa category for temporary workers engaged in an occupation which requires the theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge and the attainment of a bachelor’s or higher degree in the specific field for entry into the occupation. Maximum period of stay is six years, with certain exceptions.

H-4: Visa category for spouses and unmarried children under 21 years of age who are accompanying H-1B visa holders. H-4s are not eligible for work authorization except in limited circumstances.

I-129 Form: Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker, is the government form filed by the employer with USCIS to request E, H, L, O, or TN visa classification on behalf of a foreign national.

I-140 Form: Form I-140, Immigrant Petition for Alien Worker, is a government form filed by an employer with USCIS in U.S. permanent residency cases. The filing of this form is the second stage of the permanent residence process for employment-based cases requiring PERM and the first stage where PERM is not required.

I-485 Form: Form I-485, Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status, is the government form filed with USCIS by a foreign national who is in the United States and seeks to finalize the permanent residence process.

L-1: Visa category for an Intracompany Transferee. The employee must have worked outside the United States for at least one year for a parent, subsidiary, affiliate, or branch office of the U.S. employer in a specialized knowledge (L-1B), or executive or managerial (L-1A) capacity. Individual L-1 petitions are submitted to USCIS in the United States for adjudication and approval before the visa stamp can be issued. This is in contrast to the Blanket L procedure where the application is submitted directly to the U.S. Consulate abroad. Maximum period of stay is five years (L-1B) or seven years (L-1A).

L-2: Visa category for spouses and unmarried children under 21 years of age who are accompanying L-1 visa holders. L-2 spouses may apply for work authorization.

Labor Certification: A certification by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) that there is no able, willing, qualified, and available American worker (generally, this means a U.S. citizen or lawful permanent resident) available for a particular position, in a particular geographic area, at a prevailing wage. The labor certification relates to a particular position, not an employee. In order to obtain an approved labor certification, the employer must show that it tested the local job market and made a good faith effort to recruit for the position, and that employment of a foreign national employee does not adversely affect the wages or working conditions of similarly employed U.S. workers.

Labor Condition Application (LCA): The LCA is a prerequisite to filing an E-3, H-1B or H-1B1 petition. In the LCA, the employer attests to certain wage, working conditions, and notice obligations. The LCA must be approved by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL).

Lawful Permanent Resident (LPR): A person who has been granted authorization to live and work in the United States on an indefinite basis. Also known as an immigrant, green card holder, or permanent resident.

O-1: Visa category for a Person of Extraordinary Ability. U.S. employers may sponsor foreign nationals for O-1 employment for an initial period of three years, and then in one-year increments.

Passport: Travel and identity document issued to foreign nationals by their country of citizenship. Must be unexpired in order to enter the United States. The U.S. Consulate will place nonimmigrant visa stamps in the foreign national's passport. The passport must be valid for at least 6 months at the time of entry.
Program Electronic Review Management (PERM): The attestation and audit system under which employers obtain permanent labor certification for certain employment-based immigrant cases. Under PERM, employers conduct recruitment and advertising before filing a labor certification application. Applications are submitted electronically or by mail and are subject to audit by Certifying Officers of the Department of Labor.

Permanent Residence: A legal status that permits an individual to live and work in the United States indefinitely. When this legal status is granted, the government issues a Permanent Resident Card, often referred to informally as a “green card.”

Port of Entry (POE): The port of entry is the air, land, or sea port through which the foreign national travels to the United States.

Priority Date: The date a U.S. employer files a PERM application with DOL on behalf of a foreign national. Where a PERM application is not required, then the date Form I-140 is filed with USCIS. This date secures a place in the queue for the foreign national under the green card quota system.

United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS): USCIS is the agency that processes applications and petitions for immigration benefits. Formerly known as the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services (BCIS) and the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS).

Visa Stamp: This is the stamp embossed in a foreign national's passport by a U.S. consulate abroad, which indicates the foreign national's specific visa category. In order to enter the U.S., most foreign nationals must have a currently valid visa stamp in their passport (except Canadian citizens and persons entering in B-1/B-2 status under the visa waiver program). A foreign national who presents a visa stamp to the inspector at the port-of-entry may be admitted in that visa category and be issued an entry/departure record, Form I-94, showing the immigration status and length of time allowed to stay in the U.S.

Visa Waiver Program (VWP): The VWP permits citizens of designated countries to apply for admission to the United States for 90 days or less as nonimmigrant visitors for business or tourism without first obtaining a B-1 or B-2 visa stamp from a U.S. Consulate. Visits are generally short-term and, with very limited exceptions, cannot involve employment in the U.S. or the undertaking of an academic study program.
About Fragomen

Fragomen is a leading firm dedicated to immigration services worldwide. The firm has more than 4,900 professionals and staff—including over 675 lawyers and equivalent professionals—in 55+ offices located in the Americas, Asia Pacific and EMEA. Each location is established either as a law firm or an immigration consultancy, in accordance with applicable local laws and regulations. In total, Fragomen offers support in more than 170 countries.

Fragomen's professionals are respected thought leaders in the immigration field, as recognized year after year by Chambers, Best Lawyers and Who’s Who. They contribute to conferences and seminars around the world, and author books and other publications that are relied on as standard references by other immigration professionals. Many of Fragomen's professionals have prior experience working in government agencies and in-house corporate immigration departments, allowing Fragomen to advance strategies for world-class immigration program management.

Fragomen is structured to support all aspects of global immigration, including strategic planning, efficiency, quality management, compliance, government relations, reporting, and case management and processing. These capabilities allow the firm to represent a broad range of companies, organizations, and individuals, working in partnership with clients to facilitate the transfer of employees worldwide. For detailed information about Fragomen, please visit www.fragomen.com.

Disclaimer

This chapter was prepared by Andrew Greenfield with Fragomen, Del Rey, Bernsen & Loewy, LLP. Views expressed in this chapter are the author’s own, not that of the International Trade Administration. This chapter does not constitute legal advice. Readers interested in investing in the United States should consult legal counsel.